Happy Friday!

Literacy

Yesterday, we read the final chapter of the book The Diary of a Killer Cat.

Listen to this chapter until the 2 minute mark.

Chapter 7: Saturday

I was still quite suspicious when we reached the vet's. That is the only reason why I spat at the girl behind the desk. There was no reason on earth to write HANDLE WITH CARE at the top of my case notes. Even the Thompson's Rottweiler doesn't have HANDLE WITH CARE written on the top of his case notes. What's wrong with me?

What did the receptionist think about Tuffy? Highlight the words and phrases that show her feelings. What is the receptionist thinking, feeling, hoping and regretting? Remember, when we use observation and background to reach a logical conclusion, this is called inference.

Write down your ideas in this table.

Try and write in first person (I) and use past tense .

Thinking	Feeling
Hoping	Regretting

Now have a go at thinking about the gerbil's point of view. What can you infer about them?

So I was a little rude in the waiting room. So what? I hate waiting. And I especially hate waiting stuffed in a wire cat cage. It's cramped. It's hot. And it's boring. After a few hundred minutes of sitting there quietly, anyone would start teasing their neighbours. I didn't mean to frighten that little sick baby gerbil half to death. I was only looking at it. It's a free country, isn't it? Can't a cat even look at a sweet little baby gerbil?

And if I was licking my lips (which I wasn't) that's only because I was thirsty. Honestly. I wasn't trying to pretend I was going to eat it.

The trouble with baby gerbils is they can't take a joke.

Challenge - Have a go at thinking about the vet's point of view. What can you infer about them?

No wonder by the time the vet came at me with her nasty long needle, I was in a bit of a mood. I didn't mean to scratch her that badly, though.
Or smash all those little glass bottles.
Or tip the expensive new cat scales off the bench.
Or spill all that cleaning fluid.
It wasn't me who ripped my record card into tiny pieces, though. That was the vet.

Maths

This week we have been thinking about how we can describe and give instructions. Can you think of all the vocabulary we use when we talk about position and direction?

Left, right, up, down, forwards, backwards, behind, in front

We can also use the words clockwise and anti-clockwise. Watch this video to remind yourselves about how these words describe direction.

Maths

Have a go at this game! Choose 'position and direction' and then either the bronze or silver level first. If you feel confident, have a go at gold afterwards.

Geography Project!

We're going to think about our topic a little differently. You have a project for the whole of this week.

We would like you to choose a country, it could be one you've been to, one you would like to go to to, or even one you had never heard of before!

Geography covers a wide range of things about the study of our Earth. You could include:

- Maps and the size of your chosen country
- What the land is like. Are there hills, mountains, volcanos, forests, deserts, rivers, beaches or coastlines?
- What different cultures, languages, and people are represented there?
Is it the same across the whole country or does it change?
- What is the capital city? Are there other towns or cities?
- What is the climate like?

Geography Project!

- What is the plant and animal life like? Are there things which are special to that country/area?
- Why did you choose this country?
- Would you want to live there?
- And so much more!

You can present your project any way you like. You might choose to make 3D models, a fact book, posters, a travel guide, a powerpoint presentation, a video, anything you like!

Show of your knowledge and presentation skills!

Good luck!
