Nursery Homeworking Tasks

Good morning Nursery Class! Here are the Nursery homeworking tasks for today. For today's homeworking tasks play some listening games with your family. You can also make some amazing art by following the instructions below to make your own salt sculpture! There are some ideas below for today's learning. Scroll down to find the links. I hope you enjoy your day! From Abi

Key links

Listening Games

Play one of these fun listening games together with your family. Click on the link below and choose from a range of themes. Get your listening ears on and listen carefully to the sounds. Can you guess what they are?

Play a game of animal charades

Draw some pictures of some different animals onto small pieces of paper. Fold them up and put them into a bowl. Take turns with your family to take a piece of paper out of the bowl and pretend to be the animal. Move your body as the animals would, can your other family members guess which animal you are?

Sing A Long with THAMES

THAMES have created some lovely singing tutorials on their you tube channel for you to watch and sing along to. Click on the link below to sing along to some familiar songs with Selina.

Make a Feelings Diary

To help you think about how you are feeling throughout the week create a feelings diary with your grown up. This will help you realise that it is OK to feel how you are feeling now and also know that your feelings change. Spend some time talking about one or two feelings that you have today (happy, sad, anxious, relaxed, excited, worried). Use the pictures of different feelings from the link below or make your own by drawing them with pen and paper. Use the grid below or draw your own and put the picture that represents how you feel into the boxes. At the end, talk about or draw a picture of at least one thing that made you happy today.

Read A Book

Today's book is Giraffe's Can't Dance by Giles Andreae and Guy Parker-Rees. Follow the link below where you can listen to the story. I like listening to the music too.

Make a salt sculpture

This is really fun! Make a salt sculpture with your family by following the instructions below!

To make your own salt sculptures, you'll need:

Some sort of mould (sandcastle, drinking glass, anything you can think of!)

Table salt

Water

- Add 3 cups of salt and 3 teaspoons of water to a bowl. Stir extremely well - every bit of salt should appear wet/crumbly. If there is still dry salt, continue to stir. It shouldn't be necessary to add more water, but if for some reason after a lot of stirring you still have dry patches of salt, add 1/4 teaspoon of water.

- Once your salt is uniformly crumbly and damp, spoon or pour it into your mould and press hard to compact it. Leave it in the mould for at least 12 hours (24 hours or more is best).
- After that, you can flip it over and it should slide out of the mould. Allow it to dry for an additional 12 or more hours (24 hours or more is ideal) after it's been removed from the mould.
- Check that it is dry and solid to the touch before painting it with liquid watercolours or dilute food colouring. Before painting it, transfer it to a container or paint it in a spot where you can leave it to dry undisturbed for 12 or more hours. Once painted, it will be very delicate until it dries once again and moving it by hand will result in a crumbled sculpture.
- Once it has completely dried, it is pretty solid. I'm sure if you dropped it, it would shatter, but you can easily handle/move it. You can keep the sculptures on display, or you can break them with a hammer or mallet and use the salt for sensory play or art!

Do some daily exercise

Exercise is a great way to keep your body and mind healthy and can really help with lifting your mood. Try some fun exercise from dancing with Oti Mabuse to workouts with Joe Wicks everyday at 9am.
